

pdQstyle

OH HONEY!

Lost in translation

What might be a fashion faux pas in Ohio works just fine in NYC

STORY AND PHOTOGRAPHS
BY KATHLEEN MURPHY COLAN
Special to The Plain Dealer

Over-the-top fashion statements usually turn heads on the streets of Cleveland, but in New York City, hardly anyone takes a second look at folks wearing feather boas, top hats, micro miniskirts with 4-inch heels and leather from head to toe. At New York City's twice-yearly Fashion Week, drag queens, aspiring fashion designers, model wannabes and fashionistas all don their creative best, hoping to get noticed, which makes standing out from the crowd a lot harder.

Just imagine the looks and whispers that would greet these snazzy dressers in Northeast Ohio.

To reach this reporter: kathleencolan@adelphia.net

Rebecca Turbow, originally from Cleveland Heights, is an aspiring fashion designer and shows off her own designs, which are conveniently available at www.safeclothes.com.